Must Meet Danger Of Pact Between Berlin And The Soviets

Briand Must Get Quid Pro Quo In The Conference

Paris, Oct. 26.—In the Chamber of Deputies today M. Briand, asking for a vote of confidence to enable him to proceed to the Washington Conference said that France was quite willing to lighten her military burden and assured the Chamber that nothing would be abandoned without France receiving a counterpoise.

He declared that he would not go to Washington unless he was able to obtain a good majority. A vote of confidence was passed by 391 votes to 186.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 26.—In the debate on the Government's policy in the Chamber of Deputies today M. Tardieu, dealing with the Washington Conference, declared that, if the Governments did not agree on the Pacific problems, there would be no discussion on limitation of armaments.

He asked what was the Government's attitude on the grave Pacific questions such as shipping, wireless, the racial problem, and "the possible danger of the union of Germany with Russian Bolshevism, and Chinese anarchy" (cheers from the Right and Center and laughter from the Extreme Left to which M. Tardieu retorted: "Read the German newspapers and you will be edified").

He declared that it was urgent that the Foreign Government should consider with the Allies how Japan could help them to meet that danger. The delegates of the two Americas would speak at the Conference in the name of the Monroe Doctrine and Britain in the name of the doctrine of Empire.

In face of these two groupings was France going to Washington alone? What had they done with Italy, Czecho-Slovakia and Belgium to safeguard their common continental interests? It did not seem to him that the Washington Conference had the necessary technical and general preparations.

CHINESE ON WAY

London, Oct. 26.—Lord Lee and his staff, M. Sastri, Dr. Wellington Koo, and Japanese military experts left London today en route to the Washington Conference.

Lord Lee, interviewed by Reuter's representative, said he was going to Washington in a spirit of confidence and was not prepared to contemplate failure.

Large numbers of Chinese assembled on the platform, including Sir John McCleavy Brown, Counsellor, and the staff of the Chinese Legation as well as Chinese students in London, to bid farewell to Dr. Wellington Koo, who is accompanied by his wife, his secretaries, and Dr. Wong Chung-hui who has just arrived from Geneva.

General Okaotake and Colonel Tatekawa departed by an earlier train on which were also the Marquis and Marchioness Naka-Konikado. Large numbers of Japanese were at the station to see them off.

Interviewed prior to his departure for Washington, Dr. Wellington Koo declared that limitation of armaments depended almost entirely upon reconciliation of the conflicting policies in the Far East.

CHINA SEEKS PEACE

China would naturally make certain claims for fair recognition of her rights and the requirements of her future but she was primarily interested in the promotion of peace in the Pacific and in the whole of the Far East. In seeking co-operation and recognition of her rights, she would always keep in view the paramount needs

JAPAN TO HOLD RIGHTS IN CHINA DESPITE OTHERS

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Oct. 26.—Mr. Hu Wei-teh, Chinese minister at Tokio, has telegraphed to the government stating that Japan has given two new instructions to her delegates at the Pacific conference.

These are:

(1) That Japan shall maintain a postal and telegraphic service in China regardless of the attitude taken by other countries; and the Chinese Eastern Railway shall be placed under the joint control of Americans and Japanese who shall be responsible for its capitalisation.

(2) Correspondence and cable service in the Pacific Ocean shall be thrown open to all without restrictions. This latter includes the Yap cable service.

CHITA EXPERTS TO SOLVE THE 17 JAPANESE POINTS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Dairen, Oct. 19.—A party of experts on fisheries, mining and military affairs is expected here from Chita. This is due to a request made by Mr. Petroff, the chief Chita delegate. The Chita delegates are understood to have received instructions from their Government as to the Japanese counter proposals of 17 points.

It is expected that the conference will be resumed as soon as the Japanese delegates reply to certain proposals made by the Chita delegates at the previous session.

40 Fishermen In Kamchatka May Face Death Now

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 20.—Information coming from a reliable source says that 40 fishermen, engaged in the fishing grounds north of Kamchatka, missed the last boat for Japan and that they are now stranded for the winter in the frozen north country. Efforts to effect their relief have been made but to no avail. Naval officials attempted to send vessels to the North but the effort was unsuccessful and it is feared that the men will be the victims of cold and starvation.

Big Loan May Be Given China Tiding Over Settling Day

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 26.—A New York telegram states that a $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 loan to China is being considered by the American Group of the Chinese Consortium for the purpose of meeting the maturities falling due on November 1.

California Trade Envoys Get Cordial Welcome On Their Arrival In Shanghai

Portion Of Party Coming Overland From Peking This Week—Entertainments Planned By American And Chinese Here

California's trade mission to the Far East arrived yesterday on the steamer Empire State, of the Pacific Mail, and was given welcome to China by American officials and representatives of American and Chinese commercial bodies.

The whole party numbers about 135 individuals, about forty of them left the ship in Japan to come to Shanghai overland through Korea and by way of Peking, and by reason of this formal entertainment of the visitors has been deferred until all are gathered here. This will be in the first week of November.

PURPOSE OF MISSION

The California trade mission, as explained by its secretary, Mr. Dwight K. Grady, is in the Far East to foster a closer acquaintance with the Far Eastern peoples and with commercial conditions in this part of the world. The whole purpose of the journey, as he said, is to "get acquainted."

The mission already has had a glimpse of Japan, and many of those who arrived yesterday will take trips into the Northern centers of trade.

The first event planned for the entertainment of the visitors while they are in Shanghai will take place on Tuesday, November 1 and will consist of a launch trip on the Whangpoo. On Wednesday afternoon an informal reception will be given by the American Association of China and the American Chamber of Commerce. On this same day automobiles are to be provided for a tour of the city by Chinese and American commercial men. This automobile tour is to terminate at the Columbia Country Club at 4 o'clock, where a tea dansant will be held from 4:30 to 6.

DINNER TO BE GIVEN

The principal event in the entertainment program will take place Wednesday evening, following the tea dansant, when the visitors will be entertained at a dinner by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce in their quarters on North Honan Road.

Through the stay of the trade delegation in China the Empire State will remain in port and the mission will sail on the ship for visits to Manila and Hongkong on November 3.

MEMBERS OF DELEGATION

Heading the party that arrived on the Empire State is A. I. Esberg, chairman, honorary vice president, foreign trade ambassador and director of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Esberg was a director of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition Company, is on the board of the Shasta Zinc and Copper Company, president of the Alexander Boyd Estate, vice-president of the General Cigar Company, and a director of the Yosemite National Park Company.

Others who arrived this morning were:

H. L. Judell, head of H. L. Judell & Company of San Francisco, importers and dealers in cigars. Mr. Judell is known as the dean of commercial travelers on the Pacific Coast and is past grand counselor of the United Commercial Travelers of America. He is accompanied by his daughter, Dr. Malvina Judell, and his niece, Dr. Amelia Gates.

Byron Mauzy, president Mechanics Institute; regent, University of California; Represents; Rudolph Wurlitzer Co., Jesse French Piano Co., Burnham and Bluebird Talking Machines.

Dwight K. Grady, secretary, Foreign Trade Department, San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

Warren Shannon, supervisor, City of San Francisco, appointed as special representative of the city.

RUBBER GROWERS PLAN TO MARKET FINISHED GOODS

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 26.—A meeting under the auspices of the Rubber Shareholders' Association was held in London today. Mr. Zorn, the Chairman, explained the Association's scheme to remedy the difficulties of the rubber market, including the formation of a rubber manufacturing company, owned and controlled by planters, the establishment of two propaganda funds, the restriction of output, the pledging of planting companies against forward sales at the prevailing low prices and the formation of a Rubber Parliament, consisting of delegates of all interests. Mr. Zorn said that a capital of £500,000 was suggested for the Rubber Manufacturing Company and that this could be provided without difficulty by the existing rubber companies. A resolution, approving the policy was adopted and also a resolution requesting the Colonial Office to appoint delegates from the Association to the new Government Committee on the rubber question.

Sound In Finance But Ill In Body, Is Bank's Mainstay

London, Oct. 26.—The management of the National Co-operative Bank, which is not connected with the banking department of the Co-operative Wholesale Society, announces that there is an ample margin after fully paying the holders of current deposit accounts, nearly all the bonds, providing the Bank's capital, being held by one wealthy man who is financially very sound but at present ill in a nursing-home.

Rotarians Listen To Interesting Talks At Annual Meeting

Addresses by Dr. C. Noel Davis, Acting Commissioner of Public Health, and Dr. H. T. Hodgkin were a feature of the annual meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club yesterday. The meeting followed the customary weekly tiffin of the organisation at the Astor House and was well attended.

Among the guests at the tiffin were Mr. Byron Mauzy and Mr. Constant Meese, San Francisco Rotarians, and Mr. Dwight K. Grady, also with the delegation of San Francisco business men who arrived by the Empire State yesterday morning.

Dr. Davis gave an interesting and instructive talk on the subject "The New Public Health," dealing with the progress being made in disease prevention work, more particularly as it affects Shanghai. His address in full will be found in another column.

Dr. Hodgkin spoke on the subject of industrial parliaments.

Korean Leader Who Wrote Wilson Is Freed By Japanese

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Seoul, Oct. 19.—Sai Nanzen, the Korean Nationalist Leader was released on probation yesterday.

He was committed to prison on a charge of drawing up the declaration of independence, as well as writing letters to President Wilson, and other prominent persons the year before last, when the vigorous independence movement was launched by the Korean Nationalists.

He was sentenced to a term of three years' imprisonment, so that he had only six more months to serve but owing to his good conduct while in jail he has been released on probation.

Refugees In Constantinople Relieved By Gift Of Ten Millions

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 26.—The Intransigeant emphasises that the situation of the Russian refugees at Constantinople is desperate. There are still there 5000 Russian refugees, 3,500 of whom are gaining a livelihood of some sort of employment. The American Red Cross and the French authorities have ceased providing them with rations since October 13 and the International Red Cross has only very small resources at its disposal. In these circumstances all the refugees are inexorably condemned to death by starvation if aid is not immediately forthcoming. During the last eleven months the American Red Cross has spent for the maintenance of the Russian refugees at Constantinople the formidable sum of $10,000,000.

A Relief Committee has been formed, including the leading personages at Constantinople, for the relief of the Russian refugees there and an appeal for help, signed by the Committee, in English, French and Italian has been sent out by wireless.

It is reported from Washington that Mr. Hoover has published a report by Dr. Vernon Kellogg, showing that 50,000,000 persons in the Volga district are threatened with death by starvation if food does not reach them soon.

SECRETARIES TO ACT

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 24.—Mr. Alfred Sze, Minister to Washington, reports that following the Brussels Conference a special international conference to consider measures for the relief of famine stricken people in Russia will be held in Washington to which China has been invited to send a representative. As Mr. Sze's time will be fully occupied with the Pacific Conference one of the Secretaries of the Legation will probably be nominated.

TREATY BREACH SAYS WIRTH OF SILESIA AWARD

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Oct. 26.—In the Reichstag today in the course of a subdued speech with a substratum of bitterness Dr. Wirth characterised the handing over of the Silesian question to the League of Nations as a breach of the Peace Treaty which was also violated by the new line itself. Nevertheless, he said, Germany had decided to appoint a delegate to conduct the German-Polish economic negotiations in preference to exposing themselves to coercive measures which would seriously compromise the whole Fatherland.

FLAGS HALF MASTED

Berlin, Oct. 26.—The reconstructed Wirth Cabinet shows that Dr. Rathenau, the Minister of Reconstruction, Herr Rosen, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Herr Schiffer, the Minister of Justice, are omitted, with the combining of the Chancellorship with the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Herr Radbruch has replaced Herr Schiffer. The successor of Dr. Rathenau has not been appointed. When the Reichstag reassembled, the flags were flown at half-mast as a sign of mourning for the Upper Silesian decision.

With All These Household Cares How Can We Write?

By Elsie McCormick

Dear Mr. Editor: This is just to let you know that we are not coming down to the office today. In the first place, we can't think of a thing to write about and we always hate to sit around reading while everybody else is busy calling up the Police Department or calling down the office boys. On days when we can't think of anything to write, we just type our name at the top of the paper, and every time you come out of the inside office, we get busy and type it over again. The rest of the time we read a problem story in Smart Set, the problem being just how the author got by with it.

Besides, we are occasionally fatigued by some of the people in the office. Just for instance, Mr. Editor, yesterday one of the boys had a cable dispatch about a yacht saying, "Elsie breaks a mast." And would you believe it, Mr. Editor, for the next ten minutes, the whole staff sat around and suggested facetious headliness. Also, we do get awfully weary of that Evening Star crowd. Every time the first paper comes off the press in the afternoon, they all gather together as they would around a pink-lined bassinet, and gurgle over it, and toss it up in the air and feel around for new teeth, and remark about how much it doesn't look like its morning parent.

MERELY AN ASTEROID

They seem to think that when they make this last-mentioned remark that they are flattering it. They aren't. If it wasn't for the morning paper, the Evening Star would have been nothing but an asteroid and would probably have been born with infantile paralysis besides. It is getting so now that every time the Star appears, the CHINA PRESS people all go out and take a walk.

And so, as we remarked before, we are staying home today. You really ought to come over and see our home some time, Mr. Editor. We won't give you the address because nobody can ever find us anyway and you have just as much chance of picking the right house without the address, as you have with it. You see, the houses on our street were numbered either by a deputation from the Home for the Feebleminded or by somebody who believed in the slogan, "See Shanghai First." The result is that you have to walk a mile to find a number and two miles to find two numbers. One night we were due to leave for a dinner party at eight o'clock, and about nine o'clock some people telephoned that they had been driving up and down for an hour, trying to find us, and that they would try it once more, provided we stood in the middle of the street to flag them as they went by.

RENT FOREIGN, ANYWAY

Another reason why people have difficulty in finding us is because our house is not stylish. Most of our friends seem to think that our residence should be in keeping with our elaborate wardrobe and dazzling beauty. Therefore they are startled to find us dwelling in a home that is euphemistically described as "semi-Chinese." According to our understanding of it, the house is Chinese and the rent is foreign.

But you'd be surprised how fond all three of us are of that little house. Some of our friends call it 'the managerie,' which, they explain delicately, is the diminutive of 'menage,' others insist that the proper title is the "Rice Shop", as all it needs to make the name fit is a few wooden buckets and some boards to cover the front at night, while still others, mellowed by the third cup of tea served on our upstairs back porch, maintain that it should be known as "Shanghai's Greenwich Village."

We also forgot to mention that our house is four stories high—that is, we have four rooms and they are all on different levels. Unfortunately we haven't a lift at present, but we are thinking of installing the kind of slippery

PRISONER SAYS WITNESS IN CASE IS GUILTY MAN

Sikh Charged With Murder Makes Counter-Accusation

Sarwan Singh, Sikh watchman charged with the murder of Mangal Singh, another watchman, yesterday in the British Police Court denied his guilt and accused the principal police witness, one Juna, of the crime.

Mangal Singh was killed, presumably by a blow from a sharp pointed walking stick, in an alleyway off Kiangse Road on the night of October 20. The killing followed a drinking and gambling party in which eight or ten Indians, including the prisoner and the victim, were concerned.

On the night in question Juna came to Central police station and reported that he had been assaulted by two fellow countrymen. He was drunk and was told to go home. Later, after the report had been received that a man's body was lying in the alleyway, he was found near the scene of the assault and was arrested. He accused Sarwan Singh, who was arrested in the Gordon Road district the following day.

SAYS HE SAW BLOW

Juna yesterday testified that he saw the prisoner strike the blow and that he used a thick metal tipped stick.

"I shouted to him, 'You should not kill this man,' and called to the people who were drinking and gambling in the room. When they saw Mangal Singh on the ground they went away."

The counter accusation came when the prisoner was permitted to cross-examine the witness.

"Mangal Singh was killed by Juna," he declared, and went on to say that the witness bore a grudge against him dating back to

HARDING IS OUTSPOKEN ON U.S. NEGRO DIFFICULTIES

Tells Blacks Education Is Their Refuge But Not Equality

KEEP RACE PURE

Miscegenation Spells Ill For Them Is Message Of President

Washington, Oct. 26.—President Harding Speaking at Birmingham, put the quietus on negronhops for equality, social equality at least and plainly told the negro that his only hope of parity with white men was through his brain. Education and education and again education was the president's manner of hammering it in.

Political and other equality had been given him, Harding told the negro, but the president saw nothing but trouble from miscegenation and declared that the United States had done everything possible for the negro's upbuilding on moral, mental and physical grounds.

Despite the previously expressed opinion of his advisors, the president's address made a profound impression on the thousands of negroes who heard him and they seemed exalted rather than depressed over his statement that education and keeping their race pure would solve their problems in so far as the United States was concerned.

NOW INTL. QUESTION

Birmingham, Ala, Oct. 26.—President Harding in a speech advocated the right of the American negro to broader political and educational advantages, based on race pride, but never on negro aspirations of social equality.

The World War had resulted in the race question becoming not sectional but national owing to the sudden migration of the blacks to the North and West. The whole world was confronted with the color question.

WOOD WOULD PUT ANTI-CHINESE LAW UPON TABLE

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Oct. 26.—The Governor-General, Major-General Wood, has addressed a message to the Legislature recommending the postponement of the law, passed at the last session, requiring books to be kept in English, Spanish or the native dialect.

The law is due to come into force on November 1, but General Wood suggests that its operation should be put off until January 1, 1923, "to permit an exhaustive investigation into the matter with a view to determining a method of gradual progressive application of the law avoiding as far as possible any unnecessary hardships."

The Senate is ready to comply with General Wood's request, but members of the House of Representatives, including the majority leader, are inclined toward opposition although the passage of the Postponement bill is expected. The Chinese are vigorously fighting the measure, having taken their campaign to Washington through a special delegation months ago.

General Wood says that it is obvious that the law may be destructive far beyond the compensating advantages to public interest, if adequate time for preparation is not granted. In the economic development of the Philippines trade with China and foreign countries in the Orient and their nationals within the Philippines dates from prehistoric times and today is an important factor.

For the future, wise public policy must look to the maintainance and further development of these valuable commercial relations and to the increasing of friendship.

The Cantonese, who are running three-fourths of the small shops throughout the islands, are talking among themselves of closing their doors in retaliation, if the law becomes effective, as they claim that is would be impossible to get enough bookkeepers.

Health Commissioner Talks Of Disease Prevention Work

The problems and attainments in the battle against disease throughout the world, with particular consideration of the task in Shanghai, were discussed in interesting and informative fashion at yesterday's meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club by Dr. C. Noel Davis, Acting Commissioner of Public Health. His subject was "The New Public Health."

Dr. Davis' address follows:

"We are living in an age which seems the most wonderful, the most advanced of all—an age of new movements, new beliefs, new faiths—new aspirations toward life. We have heard much of the new theology, the new thought, the new psychology: yet, as we ponder over these things, we realise the truth of the saying of the wise man of old, 'There is nothing new under the sun.'

"As we are borne along the stream of human progress, ever-changing aspects of the universe are unfolded to our gaze—we ourselves, in common with all nature, are undergoing that ceaseless process of development or unfolding, which we call evolution—and at certain period we are conscious that things are not what they were—they have become new.

"In this way we may speak of the new Public Health—a subject which vitally concerns us all, both as individuals and as communities. I can do little more than touch the fringe of it for it includes all knowledge and all enterprise which produce health and prevent disease. These are not the same thing.

"Health is the highest condition of physical and mental well being in virtue of which we are joyous and efficient in our personal lives and as members of the community. But it by no means follows that a high condition of health protects against disease—especially infectious disease, of which I shall speak chiefly today.

"Is there anything more tragic than to see young lives, in the beauty and bloom of youth struck down by some insidious and fell disease?

IS COMPLEX QUESTION

"The whole question of immunity is complex and much has still to be learned of it—but this may be said in general that for each specific disease a specific immunity is necessary. It may be natural, it may be acquired. Natural immunity is inherited and possessed in common by all individuals of the same species: thus the lower animals have a high natural immunity to most of the diseases which affect man—as measles, scarlet fever, typhoid, cholera: and man has a high natural immunity to cattle plague and other diseases which affect animals. To many diseases man and the lower animals are equally susceptible—tuberculosis, rabies, Malta fever, plague.

"Rarely one meets with a person who apparently has a natural immunity to one or other of the human infections, but for the most part, such immunity is acquired either by an attack of the disease, or by inoculation with a vaccine (that is, a dead or attenuated or modified virus).

"There are two branches of Public Health—Hygiene and Sanitation. Hygiene deals with the individual—sanitation with the environment. Both include measures which promote health or prevent disease.

"Now I come to the essential difference between the old Public Health and the new. The old was concerned with environment—the new is concerned with the individual. The old sought the causes of disease (I speak specially, now, of infectious disease) in the surroundings of man—the new finds them in man himself. The old failed to find them, because for the most part, they were not there.

DIRT NOT THE CAUSE

"Foul streets, dirty clothes, bad smells, leaky drains, dust, smoke, refuse, are aesthetically objectionable, and should not be tolerated, but they do not cause disease. Diphtheria cannot arise from drains, nor typhoid from refuse. Scarlet fever is probably never conveyed in the peeling skin of one who has suffered from it, and small-pox rarely in the books or clothes used by a patient months before.

"Where then does the infection lurk and how can it be avoided? In infected bodily excretions wherever they occur.

"The old time sanitary inspector concentrated his attention on the refuse bucket or on traps and drains: but of what avail was that if the milk-man delivered at the house scarlet fever infected milk, or an unrecognised case of measles sat next to the child at school.

"The new Health Inspector is concerned with the infected person and the path of transmission of infection from one to another.

"You remember the Wooden Knight of 'Alice in Wonderland.' He carried a mouse-trap on horseback, because mice might, some day, infest his horse, while himself riding so badly that he continually fell off on his head and was as continually being restored to his saddle by kind friends. What a charming satire on the Public Health Methods of the old days.

"The new Public Health knows that the excretions of the infected person are the sources of danger—to find him and to destroy the infection is the essential task.

"The great reconstructing force in modern Public Health has been bacteriology, and realising this, it is impossible not to remember with reverence and gratitude the gifts bestowed upon the human race by the genius of Pasteur. Science and religion were one to him—an untiring, undaunted search for truth. He died at Garches, near Paris, in 1895, and the whole structure of modern preventive medicine rests on the foundations of his immortal work.

PRACTICE IS SECOND

"In practice, we are, today, as communities, twenty or thirty years behind knowledge—incomplete though that be. If we acted up to our knowledge today, infectious disease of any sort would be of rare occurrence.

"There is no difference in the significance of the terms infectious and contagious—they both mean transmissible or communicable.

"Infectious diseases are due to the growth in the body of minute vegetable or animal organisms—germs or microbes. They elaborate poisons, or toxins, within themselves with which they flood the body and cause disease. They pass from body to body by the path of the excretions—sometimes as in small-pox, or leprosy or tuberculosis, they pass direct from skin to skin; sometimes as in plague, malaria, dengue, yellow fever, typhus, relapsing fever and other diseases they are inoculated by insects—fleas, mosquitoes, lice, bugs, ticks.

"But the commonest mode of transmission is from fresh and moist excretions—sprayed in minute droplets from mouth or nose; or passed to mouth or food and drink by infected fingers or by flies: sometimes by massive infection into the water supply.

"Disease germs do not grow and multiply outside the body, except rarely and temporarily, in milk or water. Typhoid germs usually disappear from water-supplies in two weeks. Most disease germs die in milk in a day or two, as the milk becomes acid. Infected persons, rather than infected things, are the danger.

"The old 'terminal disinfection' of rooms and articles after infectious disease has been largely given up as valueless, except in tuberculosis, if the rooms are to be used within a month or so. Sunlight and fresh air are the great disinfectants.

MUST WATCH INFECTED

"The method of control is obvious—it is the detection and supervision of the infected person, the disinfection or destruction of his infected excretions, so that infection may not pass from mouth to mouth, or to food and drink, and reproduce the disease.

"The search for and supervision of mild, or early, or convalescent, or unrecognised cases, or carriers, is essential to the efficiency of the scheme.

"The modern Health Department for this supremely important and most laborious task, needs an efficient, highly trained staff of experts—not in refuse and ordure disposal—those are the functions of the sanitary engineer—but in epidemiology—that is the knowledge of the origins and paths of transmission of disease, and in bacteriology, chemistry and allied sciences of the laboratory, that the very causes of disease themselves—the microbes, and their products—the toxins—may be discovered—their life histories worked out, their actions known—and methods of overcoming them devised.

"There must also be departments of administration, of vital statistics, where the financial aspects of the problem are dealt with; where the discoveries of the epidemiologists and the laboratory workers are correlated, where plans of campaign for everyday, and for times of emergency are prepared, where the results of such campaigns are recorded. Finally, a publicity department, whose function broadly is to secure the enlightenment and help of the community, without which all the knowledge and skill and activity of the experts are in vain.

"I have indicated the principles of the new Public Health—let me now explain, briefly, the practice.

OLD METHODS FUTILE

"In the old days, general methods of cleaning up the environment were adopted; they had little influence on the prevalence and progress of disease. Consider for a moment how some of the commoner infections are transmitted.

"There are five modes, or paths, of infection-water, food, flies, milk, contact. Typhoid and other intestinal infections are transmitted in all these ways. Tuberculosis, pneumonia, influenza, diptheria, scarlet fever, measles, hooping cough, small-pox, chicken-pox,—chiefly by contact—by finely sprayed minute infected droplets.

"The method which eliminates contact infection eliminates the other forms also and that method is, essentially, the control of all infectious persons. Now is the day of what is called 'specific sanitation;' the discovery of the exact causes of infection, the sources from which they spring and the paths along which they are transmitted from person to person. The problem may then be dealt with in several ways.

"The paths of infection may be blocked, as by the filtration and disinfection of the water-supply; the sterilisation by boiling of food and milk. The fresh infected excretions may be disinfected and destroyed: and finally from the causes of infection themselves, the germs, may be produced in the laboratory—vaccines or sera—by means of which specific protective immunity against specific disease may be procured, or a specific antidote administered against the specific toxins or poisons of disease when these are already circulating in the body.

"From this you will understand how vital and fundamental a part is played in the laboratory by the bacteriologist, the serologist and the chemist in the preparation of those substances—the very weapons with which the great campaigns against disease are fought.

MUST UPHOLD STANDARD

"A high standard of Public Health is a community's most valuable possession; it can only be obtained when the experts have the intelligent goodwill and help of the people, are unhampered by vested interests, and are generously supported by the financial resources of the community. The publications of the Department of Health of the City of New York bear the legend—'Public health is purchasable. Within natural limitations a community can determine its own death-rate.' There is the truth of the matter in a nutshell.

"The history of the struggle for the conquest of disease is an inspiring one—the victories of the past have been glorious—no field of human enterprise can boast a more brilliant galaxy of great names—there are still more worlds to conquer. Given the men and the means and your unfailing help and support, and some of these conquests may be ours.

"Shanghai bids fair to rank still higher in the future as a great world port. She is beset within and without by potential pestilences, to guard against which needs the closest scrutiny—the utmost vigilance.

"Already small-pox has been virtually abolished by vaccination, and plague has been stamped out by war on rats, the carriers of the disease. Cholera threatens and breaks out from time to time, but is well controlled, though it should be abolished.

"Not only dare we not relax our efforts, but if we have any care for the well-being of the city, any interest in the success of her commercial enterprises, we must increase them still more, and bring all the resources of modern Preventive Medecine to our aid."

CHRISTMAS MAIL TO GT. BRITAIN GOES NEXT WEEK

The British Post Office will close its Christmas parcel mail for the United Kingdom by the steamer Rhesus. This mail is at present fixed to close 3 p.m. on November 2 but it is desirable that postings should be effected as early as possible in case of an earlier departure of the steamer.

The Postmaster General, London, has advised that much trouble and delay is still being experienced in clearing parcels from abroad in consequence of vague or inaccurate Customs declarations, and the senders of parcels to the United Kingdom are required to furnish accurately on the declarations the descriptions and individual weights of the following classes of goods: sugar, sweets and confectionary, crystallised and imitation, fruits and flowers, preserved ginger, jam jellies and marmalades, chocolate, cocoa powder, canned fruit, tea, coffee, condensed milk, milk powder, dried fruits. In the case of dried fruits, the precise kind of fruit must be stated, e.g. figs, raisins, currants, etc.

On no account should the contents be described in general terms such as "Groceries," "Presents," etc. When there is not sufficient room on the form of Customs declaration the necessary details may be shown by the sender on the cover of the parcel.

French Creditors Of Banque In China Form Association

Announcement is made of the formation here of a "Union of French Creditors in China of the Banque Industrielle."

The association, it is emphasised by its founders, will be for the benefit of all creditors, regardless of nationality, and the reason for confining it to French creditors is that it is felt they will be able better to deal with any matters which may be taken up with the bank.

DOLLAR LINE SOON TO START NEW SERVICE

Cable advices received at he local offices of The Robert Dollar Company from their home office indicate that commencing with the sailing of the Harold Dollar late in November, the Dollar Line will maintain a regular monthly sailing from Oriental ports direct to San Francisco, Seattle and Vancouver in rotation named.

While the Dollar vessels have been making San Francisco a port of call on the outward voyages from New York heretofore, their New York steamers have not maintained a service to San Francisco homeward for some time and undoubtedly this new service will be welcomed by Oriental shippers.

In addition to the trans-Pacific service mentioned, the Company will still maintain the regular sailings to and from New York, as in the past, and it is expected the New York line will soon be augmented by the acquisition of some large new steamers which undoubtedly will be placed on the run so as to afford shippers an adequate service both to the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts of the United States.

With All These Household Cares How Can We Write?

pole they have in all up-to-date fire-houses. When we get it in, we'll let you know so that you can come over to see us and give it a tryout.

AH, AHA! ALSO AMAH

You'd be surprised how many little features there are to housekeeping, Mr. Editor, especially those growing on the faces of the amah's children. We didn't know when we hired her that we were also opening a day nursery. But then the other day we told her to buy them a dollar's worth of Chinese school-books and when they had studied them all up, to come back and we'd give her a dollar more. Thus, by the payment of tribute money, we are trusting to keep the shores of our domicile from invasion.

The other half of our domestic functionaries is the boy. We call him the boy when he is waiting on table and the cook when he is in the kitchen. When halfway between the kitchen and dining-room he is known as the boy-cook. Anyway, he is the real owner of the house. When, for instance, a slight murmur of dissent is heard around the table, following a serving of chocolate pudding garnished with canned pears, the boy enters, places a belligerent thumb on the edge of the table, and demands, "Have got taste or no have got taste?" Whereupon we meekly murmur, "Have got," and the boy vanishes again to finish a post-dinner session with the Chinese ukelele.

GENTS FIRST HERE

Outside, however, of an inordinate and totally unjustified pride in his cookery and the Chinese eccentricity of always serving gentlemen first, the boy is built on the same pattern as the usual Shanghai functionary. Our household is very smooth running, the boy being especially smooth when explaining how it happened that O'Grady, the cat, ate more during the month than is usual for four wheelbarrow coolies. The ice-man sells us his hand along with the ice, the cook has a Bessemer blast furnace concealed on the premises somewhere for the consumption of extraneous coal, and the chickens served in our house never have any legs. One of the advantages of keeping house in Shanghai is the absence of hash. The most useless thing we can think of for our residence, outside of a life-sized statue for the stair-landing, is a cook-book on how to utilise left-overs.

Yes, Mr. Editor, our house is at least an insurance policy against boredom. We have a ouija-board, a mah-jongg set, a stove and some friends that smoke, a phonograph, and a friendly ghost that raps socially on our wall at late hours of the night. We also have some neighbors that either get up or go to bed at four o'clock in the morning—we are not sure which.

ONE-SIDED HELLOING

As a matter of fact, we don't know the next-door people very well. But then as our telephone is the only one in the row, we are not encouraging cordiality on the part of our neighbors.

Well, Mr. Editor, the tailor has just come, so we must stop writing now. Tell the boys not to eat up all that package of peppermints on our desk, and if anybody calls up for us, they are not to ask who it is.

Hoping that the office will have as pleasant a day as possible considering our absence, we remain,

The Lady Feature Writer.

Buriat And Russ Hold "Sacred Dream" Meeting

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, Oct. 18.—The Buriat-Mongolian Autonomous Assembly opened in Chita on the 12th instant at 5 p.m. in the building of the Constituent Assemtly. The spacious hall was filled to its capacity by the delegates and guests in Buriat and Mongolian national attire. Even the galleries were packed with visitors, mostly Buriats, who were invited to be present at the epoch-making occasion of the inauguration.

It was the first popular assembly of the aborigines of the Russian Far East. The boxes were occupied by members of the Central Government, including Mr. Matveyeff, the chairman of the Government of the Far Eastern Republic, and leaders of the Buriat-Mongolian autonomous movement.

Mr. Danbinoff, the chairman of the committee for Buriat-Mongolian Autonomy, opened the assembly, and a band played the "International." Mr. Dabinoff welcomed the delegates and guests on the occasion of the "fulfilment of the sacred dream of the Buriats and Mongols." He said:

HAIL! ALL HAIL!

"The leaders of the Buriat-Mongols, like Bogdanoff and others, used to say that the Buriat-Mongolians would gain their autonomy only through the Russian revolution. A few months ago the Constituent Assembly of the Far Eastern Republic declared: 'Let there be an autonomous government of the Buriat-Mongols.' Hail to the great Russian revolution! Hail to the Constituent Assembly of the Far Eastern Republic! Hail to our mother-country Russia! Now let us establish an autonomous Buriat-Mongolia Gov-

Following the speech Mr. Vampilun was elected unanimously chairman of the assembly by a secret ballot. He assumed the chair while the band played a Mongolian march and the house greeted him with acclamation. The new chairman dwelt in detail upon the tasks of the assembly, at the same time recalling the history of the Buriat-Mongolian people, the conquest of Siberia by the Cossacks, and the hardships of the people under the regime of the Tsars.

He reviewed the history of the national movement of the Buriat-Mongols, and in honor of the fallen heroes he invited the house to rise, while a solemn dirge was played. Two vice-chairmen and four secretaries were then elected, completing the presedium (presiding committee) of the Assembly.

BAYONET HIS POINT

Mr. Matveyeff, the Chairman of the Government, delivered the following address:

"In welcoming the Buriat-Mongolian People's Assembly in the name of the Government, I wish to remind the Assembly of a by-gone day. It was an event that took place during the Tsar's regime at the time of the Russo-Japanese war here in Chita on the Square of Freedom, then known as the Square of the Attaman, when the city was preparing a pompous reception to General Kuropatkin.

"Among the delegates meeting the Tsar's satrap were also your representatives, who with their traditional prostrations and tributes implored him to intercede before the Tsar to grant Buriat-Mongolia national autonomy. The satrap instead of an answer, pointed to the bayonet. This was the Tsarist Government's reply to Buriat Mongol's petition for self-government.

Your cherished hope for freedom of labor and national self-government has come true; the Constituent Assembly elected by the people has declared the autonomy of the Buriat-Mongols."

Mr. Matveyeff then turned to the immediate tasks of the Assembly. Wishing it success in solving the land question which is the stumbling block between the Buriat Mongols and the Russian population. The Chairman of the Government also touched upon the question of military service of the Buriat-Mongols, and pointed out that the Government knew no difficult barrack life was for the Buriat-Mongols.

He assured them that the Government would not compel them to enter military service.

On the 13th instant the Buriat Mongolian People's Assembly settled down to practical work, electing various committees and outlining the work of the assembly.

STATE DEPT. NOW INVESTIGATING U. S. COURT HERE

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Sept. 22.—Investigation of charges of misconduct of office filed against Judge Charles S. Lobingier of the Consular court of Shanghai, China, has been undertaken by the Department of Justice, Attorney-General Daugherty announced today.

Judge Lobingier who was appointed to the court in 1914 by President Wilson for a ten-year period and who is a former resident of Omaha, Neb., recently arrived in Washington to present his side of the case.

The charges on which the investigation is based were said by Mr. Daugherty to have been filed by Mr. William S. Fleming, an American attorney and head of a law firm in Shanghai, who last July was sentenced by Judge Lobingier to serve a sentence of six months in the American prison for contempt of court.

After Mr. Fleming had served 13 days Judge Lobingier suspended his sentence pending review of the contempt proceedings by the Ninth District United States Circuit Court of Appeals of California, to which the case was taken on a writ of error.

98 FOR BRITAIN

London, Oct. 26.—In the House of Commons today at question time Mr. Chamberlain stated that the staff of the British delegation to the Washington Conference was composed of 25 officials and naval, military and air officers, 47 secretaries and typists and 21 attendants, messengers, and night watchmen.

It was impossible at present to estimate the cost but the delegation was of the minimum number required in view of the great importance and interest involved to the British Empire.

DISCUSS INSTRUCTIONS

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 26.—At a meeting of advisers to the Chinese delegation to the Pacific Conference, held at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs yesterday, instructions to the Chinese delegation at Washington were discussed. Opinions were exchanged regarding the Shantung question, and it was finally decided to reject the second Japanese memorandum without giving any reply.

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 27.—Minister of Foreign Affairs W. W. Yen has notified the diplomatic corps that he has not resigned as chief of the Chinese delegation to the Pacific Conference at Washington, but prior to his going to America he has requested Minister Alfred Sze to act in his stead.

BRITISH SHIP IS RUSHED NORTH TO HAKODATE

(Reuter's Pocific Service)

Seoul, Oct. 21.—It is stated that the British warships Colombo and Carlisle of the Asiatic Fleet, which are due at Jinsen tomorrow, will be excluded from the list. The former cruiser has been ordered to proceed to Hongkong to make preparations for the forthcoming visit to the Orient of the Prince of Wales, while the latter has been ordered to rush to Hakodate, Hokkaido, on a special mission.

The Colombo, however, will come to Jinsen after its mission is completed, but it is understood this will take place after the other vessels of the fleet have departed, which date is set for October 25.

It is announced that owing to the illness of the Governor-General, Baron Saito, an official representative will either visit or receive the Commander of the Fleet when it arrives at Jinsen.

FACE DEFICIT IN HONGKONG FROM DOPE MONOPOLY

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Oct. 27.—Introducing the Budget for 1922 today in the Legislative Council the Governor in the course of his speech said that the revenue was estimated at $17,276,260 and the expenditure at 20,207,980. The excess of expenditure was due solely to the very large program for public works.

The Governor justified the policy of devoting balances to works of development to the fullest extent as being the best which was possible to adopt in the interests of the Colony.

Alluding to the decrease in revenue from the opium monopoly, the Governor remarked that, though it was unfortunate from the financial aspect, the decrease was gratifying from a wider point of view.

Prisoner Accuses Witness Of Murder

times when they lived in the same village in India.

"Why didn't you blow your whistle or arrest me if you saw me kill Mangal," the prisoner asked Juna.

"I did not have a whistle and I was afraid after seeing you assault Mangal; I did not want to die," witness answered.

Dr. E. G. Gauntlett, who examined Mangal Singh, before he died, and also conducted the post mortem, expressed the opinion that the death was due to a blow from a heavy stick.

The skull was fractured, the doctor said.

POLICE TESTIFY

Following testimony by Mr. L. J. Hughes, assistant surveyor in the Public Works department, who drew the plan of the locality where the murder was committed, and Detective Sub-Inspector F. C. Bridger, who made the police photographs, the prosecution called Sergeant Thomas Fitzpatrick of the Central police station, who was on duty in the charge room on the night of the crime.

Sergt. Fitzpatrick said that the witness Juna came to the station intoxicated and claimed that he had been assaulted by two Indians. He refused to give any names and little reliance was placed in his statements because of his condition. Later Juna was brought in by a Chinese police sergeant and held as the result of inquiries by Detective Sergeant Balchin.

Sikh constable 437, who was on traffic duty at Nanking and Kiangse Roads on the night of the murder, told of finding the body and making his report.

The Court here rose for the noon recess and at the afternoon session Mr. J. G. Priestwood appeared for the defense and further police testimony was heard, after which the case was adjourned until Monday at 10 a.m.

Take Revolt Leader On Murder Charge

Hsu Dou, a well known figure in the Second Revolution in 1913 at Nanking, was arrested Wednesday by the French police in connection with the murder of Liu Ts-y in the French Settlement two weeks ago.

Hsu, after the failure of the revolution, fled to Japan, it is said, and came back to China to take part in recent uprisings at Weian and Si-yang, Kompo.

Liu, who was a former tufei leader in Kompo, was murdered by a band of men in his home. At the time he was killed there were warrants for his arrest issued by the Tuchun of Kiangsu and Ma Yu-zen, the Yangchow and Chinkiang Defense Commissioner.

Mrs. Gordon-West's Opinion of "Kirby's Sea-Sick Cure"

Park Lane,
February 4, 1912.

Messrs. COLLINS & ROSS,
154 Bermondsey St., London.

DEAR SIRS,

Until my last voyage to New York I dreaded sea travelling. Hitherto I had been so susceptible to sea-sickness that I could not leave my bed during the whole of the voyage. Even when travelling by train I have been obliged to lie down.

Before leaving for New York, I was persuaded to take "KIRBY'S SEA-SICK CURE" and was surprised to find that I not only evoided sea-sickness, but was entirely free from nausea of any kind. We had very rough seas during the greater part of the voyage, but I took all my meals in the saloon, and never felt better.

I shall never travel without the cure in future. You should make the remedy widely known, for it will be a boon to thousands.

Yours gratefully,
(Signed) MARY GORDON-WEST.

JEWISH MEETING

The annual general meeting of the Jewish Recreation Club was held Wednesday, at the Shanghai Jewish School.

The following were elected as officers for the ensuing year:

Captain, Mr. J. B. Katz; Vice-captain, Mr. C. Fuxman; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. D. Abraham; Hon. Secretary, Mr. H. Whitgob; Committee, Messrs. S. Caccia, H. Fiene, R. J. Moalem and M. Sternberg.

It was decided to enter a team in the Second Division of the Football League.

The subscription rate was raised from $3.00 per season to $1.00 a month in order to meet the heavy demands of current expenses. Furthermore, a blue sweater was suggested and adopted as the Club's new colors.

It was very much regretted that, owing to the Association not allowing any League matches to be played on Sundays, the Club was unable to accept the suggestion to play off all its League games on those days only.

Webb of the other team, with Sgt. Deprose as Vice-Capt.

KIANGWAN MEET FOR TOMORROW INCLUDES LEGER

Wednesday morning's gallops at the Race Course were witnessed by a large crowd. The grass track was opened with bamboos out. The course was in excellent condition but rather on the holding side, the heavy dew being more or less responsible.

Quite a number of gallops were witnessed with no outstanding feature.

In the early morning a ground fog encircled the course, which later lifted and made it difficult to observe the distance posts. Among the ponies that galloped yesterday were quite a number entered at Kiangwan on Saturday when a most interesting meeting is promised.

There are eight races set down for decision which includes The St. Leger, The Trial Steeplechase and the Wilderness Handicap.

Entries are good; 30 for The Novices Plate; 23 for The Flying Plate; 33 for the Riversdale Plate; 23 for The St. Leger; 9 for The Trial Handicap Steeplechase; 36 for The Royston Plate; 26 for The Saturday Selling Plate, and 37 for The Wilderness Handicap.

The most interesting race of course is the St. Leger. The following are probable starters with their riders:

Every Time (late Castle Sycee), 13.1, 152, Mr. D. S. Li.

Goodland (late Good Money), 13.3, 147, Mr. A. N. Dallas.

Harding, 13.0, 152, Mr. P. C. Wu.

Nationalist, 13.2, 157.

Repulse Bay Chief, 13.1, 152, Mr. A. Knoll.

Speyside, 13.0, 147, Mr. J. H. Liddell.

Association, 13.1, 157, Mr. F. R. Vida.

Golden Knob, 13.1, 157, Mr. E. Moller.

Golden Red, 13.0, 152, Mr. A. L. Pinkerton.

Lichfield, 13.1, 147, Mr. R. F. Stewart.

Salvation, 13.0, 157, Mr. C. R. Burkill.

Sir John, 13.1, 147, M. J. C. Bauld.

South Down, 13.3, 152, Mr. W. Hill.

FORTY-TWO ENTER FOR 'ALL-COMERS' RIFLE MATCH

List Is Bigger By Five Entries Than Last Year's

Forty-two Shanghai residents entered for The Shanghai "All-Comers" Rifle Championship competition which will take place on Saturday and Monday. Last year 37 entered and the honor went to Mr. G. M. Neal (American).

The conditions are the same as last year's (first stage 300, 500 and 600 yards and the second stage 800 and 1,000 yards) except that the sighting and practice shots are eliminated this year. The first stage will be seven scoring shots and the second stage fifteen scoring shots at each distance.

The British have 15 entries. merican 13, Japanese 5, Chinese , Swiss 3 and Italian and Portuguese one each.

Following are the names of the competitors: G. Archer, E. I. M. Barrett, C. Bedoni, R. H. Bullock, J. S. Chen, K. D. Chen, A. M. Collaco, A. E. Collins, A. Egli, A. C. Davis, F. G. Green, C. G. Hoh, F. E. Hodges, F. E. Hall, S. Hansen, Y. Hori, O. L. Ilbert, R. I. Ito, C. J. Langley, H. W. Lambert, A. L. Mottu, J. R. Main, K. McKelvie, G. M. Neal, H. Noisshiki, V. Olsen, W. T. Rose, C. Reeves, R. P. Roberts, F. T. Smith, F. W. Snape, P. G. Tate, C. E. M. Thomson, H. Tobias, F. J. Twogood, F. L. Tinkham, W. J. Terrill, K. Tsunoda, M. Tsukasaki, G. H. Willder, C. Weber and Y. C. Waung.

Competitors will shoot four on each mound and they are requested to be at the firing point at 1:45 p.m.

Competitors not ready to fire at 2:00 p.m. may not be allowed to fire the first range.

-:- S.V.C. Notes -:-

The last two days of the annual rifle meet of the S.V.C. were favored with no better weather than the first two, but the good attendance was maintained throughout. Thanks to the smooth working of the program no great hardship was suffered through the failing light on Saturday afternoon, though the last squads fired in unusually early semi-darkness. The whole program was actually finished by about midday on Sunday.

The greatest surprise of the meeting was the winning of the Municipal challenge cup by Sergt.-Major Kemp. His scores in other events had given no indication of his being in the least likely to rise to this dizzy height. For a man who has never previously had much to do with musketry to come through such a severe test with flying colors is, we think, quite unique, and he is heartily congratulated on his performance.

The commandant has presented an "Inter-Section Cup" for the best average percentage of scores in the annual musketry course. The competiton will be open to the smallest organisations in any unit. To frame fair conditions for such a cup has not been an easy matter. The basis of the rules is that the unit commander must submit a roll, showing the organisation of the unit, before any member commences his course. No subsequent transfers will be considered, other than the joining of recruits, and in the number, by which the total of scores is divided, will be included all those shown on the roll, whether they have fired the course or not, provided in the latter case that they have had at least four weeks three months in the case of recruits in the year, subsequent to the submission of the roll, in which they might have completed the course. It is thought that by this means it will be in the interest of every member of a section etc., to see that no one lags behind in completing his course, in view of the possibility of subsequent absence, sickness or even decease.

There will be a church parade on the morning of Armistice Day for a service which will commence at the cathedral at 10:45 a.m. It is intended to invite all men who fought in the war and who are not members of the S.V.C. to parade with us, in uniform if possible.

FIELD ARTILLERY

There will be a busy month for the Gunners during November. On Sunday, November 6 the Battery is to entrain for Woosung where Artillery practice will take place at sea targets, commencing at 10:30 a.m. at which a full muster is essential. This parade will count towards the corps efficiency.

The 13th is booked for the annual rifle meeting at the rifle range, firing to commence at 7:30 a.m. Breakfast, tiffin and tea will be provided. The committee are at work on the handicapping and the list is to be published a week before the actual shoot takes place. A good prize list is already assured and members are reminded that this day will also be an opportunity to pass the corps annual musketry course.

On the 27th members will have an opportunity of locating their cross country seat at a mounted parade called for at 9:30 a.m. at the stables.

Tonight the "L" badge competition is booked for 5:45 p.m. at the drill hall: gunlayers are reminded to attend. The riding school parades are to continue on Tuesdays as heretofore but the Friday gun drill parades are to be alternated with mounted parades owing to the congestion at the drill hall on that night.

Three new members have been taken on the strength and the members welcome back Battery Sergeant Major H. Welman and Tptr. Ratcliffe on return from long home leave. Captain R. W. Davis resumes duty as from the 28th.

"B" COMPANY

The unit will assemble for night operations at the drill hall on Tuesday, November 1 at 8:30 p.m. No. 4 section will wear helmets, the remainder, caps. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance, as this is one of the stated parades in connection with the new conditions for efficiency.

More recruits are urgently needed for this unit. While not, perhaps, offering the inducements that a mounted unit does, the work nevertheless can be made very interesting. For those who are able to give an hour a week towards serving the community it offers healthy recreation, competitive shooting and a certain amount of social intercourse. The unit now includes 35 percent ex-service men amongst its officers, N. C. O.'s and men.

The date of the camp has been changed to November 18 to 21, commencing 6 p.m. Friday, 18 and terminating 6 a.m. Monday, 21. It is hoped that as many as possible will arrange to stay in camp the whole time. Given fine weather, the work should be both instructive and interesting. Any member of the unit who feels able to lecture on military subjects is asked to prepare before hand as opportunities will be given for such lectures.

Kobe, Oct. 22.—The annual general meeting of the Kobe Hockey club held here yesterday had 18 playing members in attendance as compared to 53 for last year. The great decrease is charged to departures. It is expected however that new blood will come in from other fields of sport and a successful season be had.

YOKOHAMA FOOTBALL

Yokohama, Oct. 22.—The association football season opens here today with a match between the Yokohama Country and Athletic Club and the men from the British cruiser Carlisle.

REGATTA IN JAPAN

Tokio, Oct. 22.—The Nippon Boat Race Society will hold a regatta on the Sumida River today and tomorrow. The Crown Prince will view the races from a special launch.

Among the leading crews entered are those of Imperial University, Commercial College, Meiji University, Waseda University, High Technical School, Higher Normal School, Keio University, College of Colonisation and Foreign Language School.

HONGKONG SHOOTING

The Challenge Cup presented by Major General Sir W. G. Gascoigne for the best individual shot among the regular British troops in Hongkong will be competed for on October 29.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL MEN OUT TODAY AND TOMORROW FOR OPENING PRACTICE

Arrangements For Organisation Of Teams For Coming Season Being Made—Strong Line-Ups Are In Prospect

Thirty or more American football men will turn out tomorrow afternoon at the Polo Field for preliminary practice at 3 o'clock for the second preliminary practice of the fall season and another preliminary work-out will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the same place.

The outlook for the 1921 American football team is better than ever before. Two local teams are now assured and interest in forthcoming contests is high despite the fact that the Henli regatta has taken away about half of the available football talent for the current week.

Griffiths of the Andersen Meyer Company has kindly consented to take on temporarily the duties of manager left vacant by Jack Knowlan who left for America by way of Suez and England recently and the prospects are that the season will be rounded out and carried through more successfully than ever before.

Pending an election of officers for the 1921-1922 seasson Cy Willoit, pilot of last year's team, will carry on as captain with the probability that he will again be elected to head this year's team.

Those candidates engaged for the present in the Henli regatta, of course, will not be able to turn out today, but there will be from 20 to 25 on the field. The work will consist of passing, kicking, and light signal work in street clothes.

Among those who will go into action today in the preliminary practice work are such well known players as: backs, Dick Hutchinson, H. D. Rodger, Mal Maloney, Cy Wilhoit, Bill Harris, Dunn and Irle, and in the line, Andersen, Neprud, Tinkham, Kulp, Stovall, Jack Smith, S. F. Smith, Giauque (available only for New Year's games), Dorrance, H. F. and S. B. Hewitt, Neal, Merrill, Pruitt, Marsden, Boone, Van Hook, Miller Corcoran, Doughty, Wythe, Edwards, De Schriber and quaterback, Posner.

H. H. Arnold of the Andersen Meyer Company, J. C. Van Hook and Mr. Miller of the American School, the first named of Purdue University of Indiana, Van Hook of Kentucky University and Miller of Nebraska University will be on hand tomorrow afternoon and Sunday morning with coaching advice and it is possible that Shanghai will put a light eleven as against the Shanghai American School within the week for a preliminary trial work-out.

Plans are afoot for the equipment of two Shanghai elevens in the matter of uniforms and general equipment. Plans will be made at the meeting tomorrow for mid-week practice, and arrangements will be made to elect officers of the team.

pany. According to the usual procedure and at the express wish of the widow the deceased was buried with full military honors. Among the many present were the Commandant, the Adjutant and detachments from the various units of the corps.

All members of the unit take this opportunity of placing on record a tribute to the memory of the late Corporal Smeaton, and extend to the widow and his children their deepest sympathy.

The Scottish have now commenced their training season, and following out his program the company commander called out two sections on Tuesday evening which was devoted to squad drill without arms. This gave opportunities to men to smarten up their movements and to others to drill the squad.

Members are reminded that sections three and four will parade on Tuesday next when a similar program will be carried out.

The monthly cup competition will take place on Sunday morning next, commencing at 7 o'clock. Members are reminded that they must be on the range not later than 7:15 a.m. or they will not be allowed to take part in the competition.

The dance fixed for October 31 at the Astor House promises to be a success and considerably over three hundred are expected to be in attendance.

Preparations for the camp, November 25-28, will shortly be made and it is expected there will be a good attendance.

The company has been invited to the marriage of Corporal Kerr which takes place tomorrow afternoon and as many members as possible are asked to be present. No. 2 platoon will provide a guard of honor and ushers. The Co.'s present to Corpl. Kerr is a silver tea service which may be seen by members at any time during office hours at Lieut. Campbell's office, No. 6 Jinkee Road.

The monthly competitions of the Maritime Company, S.V.C. were held on Monday. The attendance was only moderate. A match was also shot off with a strong team from H. M. S. Bee. The Navy once more proved victorious, winning an interesting match by 44 points. The company hopes to be able to arrange a return match with H. M. S. Bee in the near future, when the company shall make a strong endeavor to reverse last Monday's defeat. The match scores are appended.

To Go Or Not To Go To Uliassutai Is Dilemma Of Legate

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 24.—The Government recently appointed Mr. Chen Wan-tse Administrative Counsellor for Uliassutai, but he has not been able to reach that center owing to the activities of the Reds in that region.

In connection with this appointment a communication has been received by the Government saying that the services of an official versed in Russian Affairs are not required at Uliassutai. Consequently Mr. Wan started yesterday for Sinkiang with the object of discussing the question with Tuchun Yang Tseng-hsin.

A SUPER PRODUCTION OF

D. W. GRIEFITH

PRESENTS

IN A SPECIAL PROGRAMME

"A Romance of Happy Valley"

A PAGE FROM THE BOOK OF LIFE

¶ D. W. Griffith has painted his characters as if in soft pastels. The sweet, trusting nature of the girl—Lillian Gish—he has showed in delicate shades of iridescent pink. The boundless ambition of the boy—Robert Harron—he has touched with fiery red.

¶ The boy's insatiable desire to "make good," to be a "real man" in HER eyes prompts him to leave home, promising to come back on the 365th day (Just like a kid, isn't it!) All that remained to remind her of him was an old weather-beaten coat he had put on her scare-crow pole.

¶ The year comes and goes. Another year. And another and another until eight have passed. Then comes the typical Griffith climax. No! You DON'T know what it is! You can't even guess, because D. W. Griffith always gives you something unexpected.

¶ He gave it to you in "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," Hearts of the World," "The Great Love" and "The Greatest Thing In Life."

¶ Now, come to see the unexpected in "A Romance of Happy Valley."

Doctor Hodgkin Explains How Christianity May Be Applied To Race Problem

The manner in which Christian principles may be applied in working for a solution of the world's race problem was set forth and the opportunity that is given to Shanghai to light the way was explained by Dr. H. T. Hodgkin in his lecture yesterday afternoon at the Lyceum theater on the subject, "Christianity—Can it be Applied to Race Problems?" Mr. A. Brooke-Smith, Chairman of the Municipal Council, presided at this lecture which was the fourth of Doctor Hodgkin's series on the general subject of "The Salvaging of Civilisation."

Doctor Hodgkin will give the final lecture of the series this afternoon on the subject, "Where to Begin." Due to the illness of Mr. E. S. Cunningham, American Consul-General, who was to preside, the post of Chairman will be filled by Sir Everard Fraser, British Consul-General.

PROBLEM DIFFICULT

In opening his address yesterday Doctor Hodgkin spoke of the intricate nature and the difficulty of the problem of the races and while he referred to the fact that questions had been invited he admitted it was impossible to answer many questions that would occur to his hearers. He expressed the belief, however, that the real problem of the race question must be faced or conditions that already have grown serious will drift into the worse state.

Explaining that the world always had had its race problem he said that the great questions in connection with it are of comparatively recent growth developing from world conditions such as the great recent expansion in transportation which has brought peoples nearer to each other, the spread of education and the coming necessity of carrying development into new lands and places.

He believed, he said, that by reason of these things the race problem soon will become the world's greatest problem. He pointed out a few of a tremendous difficulties involved—the questions of racial prejudices, or race hatred, that of inter marriage, of exclusion and labor, for which there is no panacea and he reminded his hearers that the birth race of the less advanced races of the world is greater than that of the races that hitherto have held to dominant place in the world.

FORECASTS CHANGE

The long standing economic superiority of Western peoples already is being questioned and he forecasted big changes that he said will be brought about in the next generation if not sooner.

He asked the question of what part Christianity is to play in dealing with the future of the human race and gave as his belief that the first essential in dealing with the problem is a Christian sympathy and understanding of other peoples and a respect for their feelings and beliefs. In this connection he spoke at some length of China's great past history, saying that studies he had made and visits to historic places had awakened a deep reverence for the country's past greatness and its achievements.

The speaker told that Christianity proclaimed the equal worth of all peoples and he emphasised that the great race problem must be approached with feelings of mutual respect. He asserted that the exploitation of one people by another, forced labor, slavery and practises of the kind were things that must tend toward the breaking down of society and that those who worked in behalf of the lesser races were working for the upbuilding of society.

GIVES EXAMPLES

Doctor Hodgkin mentioned several examples in different parts of the world of institutions and of methods of governments being followed with the greatest success in meeting the race problem. He decried any attitude of superiority of an individual of one race over an individual of another race and spoke of great experiences in his own life in many countries when mutual respect in gatherings of mingled races had swept away all barriers of color, creed and race.

In closing he said that the peculiar character of the population of Shanghai gave to the city the great opportunity of giving an example to the world if forces here will unite to deal in a Christian spirit in working out the race problem right here and he expressed the belief that the solution of the problem is to be come at through close fellowship and understanding rather than through manifestos or expressions of leaders.

It was announced at the meeting that charges in connection with Doctor Hodgkins' lecture series for lights, printing and things of the sort amount to $220 and that any who feel disposed to contribute to meet this expense may sent offerings to the Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at 20 Museum Road.

TO ABOLISH OFFICIALS

Paris, Oct. 23.—A thorough reorganisation of the most obsolete parts of provincial and Municipal administration is contemplated, entailing the abolition of a number of official posts, which will save many millions for the national exchequer.

NAGOYA NOW QUIET

Nagoya, Oct. 27.—The city is now quiet. There has been no further rioting since Tuesday.

CHILD "SLAVES" PROTECTED BY HONGKONG LAWS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Oct. 27.—The following are the recommendations of the Commission of Enquiry on Child Labor:

(1) All employers of children shall be compelled to register them;
(2) No child under eleven years of age shall be employed in a factory;
(3) The hours of work for children shall not exceed 54 a week. Children shall not work for more than five hours consecutively and they shall be ensured one day's rest in every seven. Half-time labor should be encouraged;
(4) Children shall not be employed between seven o'clock in the evening and six o'clock in the morning;
(5) Children shall not be employed in glass factories;
(6) Children shall not be employed in boiled chipping;
(7) Children shall not be employed in boiler chipping;
(8) Employers shall be compelled to provide rest-rooms and suitable sanitary conveniences for their workers and to make provision for medical aid in case of accidents;
(9) Inspectors shall be appointed for all classes of child labor;
(10) In building and engineering contracts articles shall be inserted regulating the weights to be carried by children.

The members of the Commission do not intend that the above series of recommendations shall be regarded as hard and fast rules not admitting of deviation. They are no more than a beginning, of which the ultimate object is the entire removal of children from factories.

The speed with which this object is accomplished will depend on the spirit in which this factory legislation, if approved, is administered.

Florida Is Swept By Strong Typhoon

(Reuter's Service)

Jacksonville, Florida, Oct. 26.—A severe tropical storm has swept the state of Florida from Key West northwards. Considerable damage was done at Tampa where portions of the city were flooded, lights extinguished, telegraph and telephone wires blown away and many small houses destroyed. The citrus crop has been seriously damaged at various places.

STUDY RAILWAY MEN

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 24.—With a view to improving the conditions that contributed to the recent strike on the Canton-Hankow Railway the Ministry of Communications has sent Mr. Lai Kuang-yu to Hupeh to compile a report regarding the condition of the railway workers.

EMPRESS IN TONIGHT

The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia, with mail and passengers for Shanghai, is due at Woosung at 9 o'clock tonight and the tender Alexandra is expected to reach the Customs jetty at about 9:30 tomorrow morning.

The tender conveying outgoing passengers and baggage to the steamer for the trip to Manila and Hongkong will leave the Customs jetty at 3 p.m. tomorrow, instead of at 4 as previously announced.

OUTBREAKS OF FIRE

The attention of the Council has been drawn to the fact that, upon the occasion of a recent fire at a Cotton Mill, no report of the outbreak was made either to the Fire Brigade or Police, with the result that the fire obtained considerable headway and was extinguished with difficulty.

Mill Managers and others in charge of industrial establishments are hereby requested to take such steps as will ensure prompt notification to the Fire Brigade or Police of all outbreaks of fires on their premises, however small, in order that adequate steps may be taken to prevent conflagration.

By order,
E. S. B. ROWE,
Acting Secretary.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

October 27, 1921.

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ½d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 69¾ and the London-New York cross rate declined to 394⅛.

The official rates at the opening this morning were 3/10 for Sterling 77 for Gold Dollars and 62½ for Yen.

The market, however, was firm, particularly for near delivery, business being done in Sterling at 3/11½ for October and 3/10 for December.

The official Sterling rate was therefore raised to 3/11, the Gold Dollar rate to 77 and the Yen rate dropped to 62½.

After the change in official quotations, rates were a little firmer, as high as 4/- being done for October delivery and 3/10¼ for December though, at the close, the best sellers for December were 3/10.

London reports the silver market as being steady with India and China small buyers, while New York reports their market as being very weak, with large supplies on offer and no buyers.

The Chinese Political Stage

BY JOSEF W. HALL

Damn him if he's right,
Damn him if he's wrong;
Damn him if he's weak,
Damn him if he's strong!

THUS the spirit of personal jealousy, which is nearest the surface in Chinese, of all national politics, manifests itself.

So we have Mr. Eugene Chen, of the Canton Publicity Bureau, ruling out Wu Pei-fu as unfit to be the leader of the country on the ground that in chicanery he is no match for Chang Tso-lin—the while that he is condemning Chang Tso-lin for that self-same chicanery.

Wu Pei-fu, after he had whipped the Anfus, was compelled to stand outside the gates of Peking while Chang Tso-lin marched in and absorbed the glory of the victory. But apparently his head is longer than the Fengtien satrap's, even if not quite so round. And if the Canton crowd make it necessary for some one in the near future, however much against his will, to march into their precincts, they may be thankful if the conquering hero is Wu Pei-fu rather than Chang Tso-lin.

PREMIER Chin Yun-peng has assumed office again, by which we mean that he has withdrawn his resignation and is attending Cabinet meetings. The success of his protege, Pan Fu, in procuring a three million dollar loan from Chinese sources outside the Chinese banking consortium, or group, has impelled him to continue as the head of the government.

The Premier has let it be known that he considers himself, however, to be filling in only pro tempore when the President is forming a more satisfactory coalition: which means one which will be more confident of itself as respects the war lords. While the duumvirate is, however, in such a deadlock of equilibrium, it is impossible for any government to be more than a fill-in. Chin Yun-peng is protecting his own skin by informing all concerned that his government aspires to be nothing more than that, and is prepared to step out at the signal.

OUT of its latest three million dollar loan, the government, after allowing for discount and interest, will net hardly more than two million dollars. The frenzy of this type of finance does not concern the officials who negotiate it. They are quite willing to allow their successors to the bureau of state to suffer the "frenzy."

The Chinese group bankers, who insist upon adequate supervision of government loan expenditure, have found that they are not able entirely to prevent the contracting of outside Chinese loans on the part of native banks and the government. They are not, however, overly concerned, anticipating that this attempt to break through the Chinese consortium restrictions will end no more happily for those concerned than the Banque Industrielle de Chine, which came into being as a revolt against the "old" consortium.

A GREAT deal of smoke has been released over the Commercial and Continental Bank Loan on the Wine and Tobacco tax, due next month, and which Mr. John Jay Abbott is in Peking to collect. All the talk about opposition to the conclusion of a supplementary loan guaranteeing the creditors for the principal and interest of the original loan, as well as the talk of a patriotic fifty million dollar loan to be floated by the native wine and tobacco merchants for the purpose of releasing the helpless government from the tentacles of foreign capitalists, has for its one purpose the obscuring of the fact that the Chinese government is unable to meet its proper financial obligations, or even make interest payment thereon.

Mr. Abbott, and the Pacific Development Company as well, would like nothing better than to collect what the government owes them and get out. None of the measures of reorganisation in the Wine and Tobacco Administration anticipated by the American leaders of the Wine and Tobacco loan have eventuated. The American who was to be taken into the administration to head this reorganisation has been kept out and idle for a year. To speak plainly, the American financiers were "gulled" into making a loan which was to have been followed by other advances upon the carrying out of the reconstruction program. Any renewal or supplementary loan at the present time covering principal and interest is only a poor substitute in the minds of the lenders for actual payment.

IT might be an interesting eventuality and one not unbeneficial in awakening Chinese officialdom if the unpaid creditors of China, be they American, Japanese or otherwise, were to request the Pacific Conference to examine into the finances of the Chinese government with the purpose of ascertaining whether or not that government is a bankrupt.

Correspondence

TRAMWAYS, LIMITED

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: As a rule, I seldom indulge in the luxury of a ride on the Shanghai Trams. I have found that my nerves will only stand a limited amount of rough usage, but this morning my rickshaw coolie suddenly became afflicted with Sciatica or Housemaid's Knee and we gradually slowed down from a canter to a jog trot. I was in no particular hurry, but a funeral procession was gradually overtaking us, not that I mind funerals so much, but I can't stand bagpipes. Incidentally I take off my hat to the Chinese for having discovered the potency of the bagpipe for scaring away devils. They could not have hit upon a more diabolical form of torture.

As I was saying, what with engine trouble and bagpipes, I decided in a weak moment to continue my journey on a tram. I was about to step on an eastbound tram, when, without the slightest warning, it started off. By means of a flying leap I managed to land in the third class compartment and started upon the most amazing journey I had ever undertaken.

Realising that I was jeopardising my social position in travelling third class, I hastily withdrew, and managed by a deft swing on the handrail and a right-about-turn to land upon the lower step of the first class compartment. For a while I could not get any further than the step because a stout gentleman was completely blocking all avenues of ingress and egress. I was idly wondering why the tram company had made no provision for stout people, when the gentleman aforesaid got off, allowing me to wedge my way into the corridor.

Although the car was literally bulging with humanity the conductor somehow managed to reach me. He did not understand much English, but he was a very clever contortionist. I told him where I wanted to get to and he asked for nine cents, I handed him nine coppers and he very obligingly returned seven. Reflecting that probably the exchange had gone up, I joyfully put them back in my pocket and began to concentrate my attention upon getting a firmer foothold in the car, but whichever way I turned the conductor turned with me, and I began to get fidgety. I finally came to the conclusion that he probably wanted some cumsha, so I offered him a ten-cent piece which at once seemed to satisfy him.

Feeling vaguely that I had been cheated, I stepped forward to get into the car proper, but the process proved to be a very painful one. Everybody seemed eager to step on my feet at the same time; my hat was repeatedly knocked off, and in one final endeavor to rescue it, I nearly had my ribs stove in. I eventually managed to worm my way into a comparatively quiet area, and began to amuse myself by reading the notices overhead.

I was particularly interested in one notice which instructed one as to the correct maneuvers necessary to accomplish an easy landing. It was something about grasping the hand-rail with the right hand and stepping down with the left foot. I intended to memorise that and make use of it when I alighted, but when the eventful moment arrived, I found that the hand-rail was already fully occupied and my left foot was heavily engaged, so I had to abandon the idea in favor of the "catch as catch can" system. There were no instructions as to how one might reach the exit in a crowd; this important problem had been left to the ingenuity of the individual.

I was congratulating myself on being able to afford the luxury of travelling first class. What did it matter if you could be trampled on at reduced rates in the third class compartment? The added dignity of being a first class passenger fully compensated one for the expenditure of a few extra cents. I was thus reflecting when I began to experience an indescribable tickling sensation in the region of my ankles. Something or other was tugging at my socks. I looked down and to my horror I saw not one but twenty live crabs of assorted size dangling upon a string. I tried hurriedly to enumerate the drinks I had taken the previous evening, watching meanwhile, in fascinated terror a hundred legs and claws all reaching in my direction. I groped widly for the communication cord but only succeeded in knocking somebody else's hat off. The car gave a lurch and the crabs swung nearer. I shuddered and edged away but any movement I attempted to make seemed to be anticipated by the owner of the crabs. I was hedged in on all sides by a solid mass of humanity and there seemed to be no escape from those menacing talons. I tried to defend myself by the use of football tactics, but the more I kicked the more the crabs seemed to enjoy it. I angrily remonstrated with the Crab Merchant, but he did not seem to be even mildly interested.

I began to be annoyed with the car company for allowing crustaceans to travel first class. If they could not protect passengers from serious injury, they should I thought, at least see to it that the travelling public were not devoured piecemeal. My attention was now diverted to the lady sitting in front of me. She apparently had also become aware that something unusual was happening and was beginning to grow hysterical. I again reached for the emergency cord when the Crab Merchant suddenly decided that it was getting too crowded and stuffy in the car for the health of his little charges and he began to maneuver for the door. The other passengers fell back like magic. I had been wondering how a person could reach the exit of a crowded car without being severely mangled and without having to exchange cards with furious fellow travellers and here was the solution.

I offer no suggestions for the improvement of Shanghai's tram service. There is literally no room for improvement, but I do think that someone should see to it that second class compartments be installed and reserved solely for livestock, so that crabs, lobsters and other reptilia will not be treated to any more comfort and enjoyment than the rest of the travelling public.

Harding As Golfer

When Warren G. Harding sank his ball into the cup on the eighteenth green of the Washington Golf and Country Club course in the recent tournament of newspaper correspondents, his net score totaled seventy-six strokes. Par for the eighteenth hole is five. He had made a nine, and he was tied with another player for third place, two strokes behind the runner up.

Here was the opportunity for the "if" golfers, and they made a field day of it. Soon they had figured out to their satisfaction what the President would have done if he hadn't dubbed the last hole. One man who had followed the play for the eighteen holes was prepared to submit a list of "ifs," many of them based on inexcusable errors of judgment or stroking, which proved that the President, with his handicap, easily should have carried off first honors. But the President would listen to no condolence. He had done his best to win and that was all there was to it. In presenting the trophy to the victor, he said:

"It has given me tremendous satisfaction to play with my brother craftsmen this afternoon, and I hope that this tournament is perpetuated. It will better fit you for the tasks that you will be confronted with."

Mr. Harding never joins, even for a day, the "if" golfers, the post-mortem fellows who talk interminably and sometimes even take their troubles to bed with them at night. The President's golfing companions say he plays with the deadly determination to do his level best with each stroke, to get all the benefit he can out of the lesson of self-control, concentration and persistence that the game teaches, but has no time for excuses.

British Health Talk

Lecture Of Sir James Cantlie, One Of The Foremost Medical Authorities

BY CHARLES H. GRASTY

The recent lectures on health by Sir James Cantlie, one of the foremost medical men of England, attracted widespread public attention. The London newspapers all published extracts and editorial articles on the lectures, but, as none of them printed the text in full, I asked Sir James for his manuscript. He did not have a lecture in that form, but kindly wrote it out, and I send it herewith.

This is a lecture on the body in health-heilig-holiness. What is health? You can't tell me, and I can't help you to define it. As we differ in features, bodily outline and build, so our fundamental activities differ, and neither the body nor mind of two individuals are identical. Both may be healthy in the ordinary sense of the word, yet they may be very different in physique and character. One may be upright in all his ways; the other a criminal. One may be maimed, and have lost limbs, one may be blind, one may be a lunatic, still his body, as distinct from his mind, is healthy—and so on. So I am not to pursue the query, as it is mere waste of time. . . .

British children, be they of poor parents, be they town bred or country bred, are, as a rule, almost as a universal rule, the exceptions really proving the rule, excellent specimens. They inherit the racial physique and they begin life with every advantage. Will that advantage continue? Did it continue in the mother, or was there only sufficient health and vigor endowed to her infant to start the race of life well, but insufficient to last through a short time only?

The staying power of the horse is the matter of inheritance, and so it is with the child. The troubles, as a rule, soon begin. It is food that fails. The weakly mother began as did the new healthy arrived child, but she was not endowed with the vigor that lasts, and she is unable to produce good milk for her child. Other foods are substituted. They exist, as we know, in legions, beginning with cow's milk, which is not the natural or normal food of infants and can never be made so, however manipulated. In earlier times the mother's milk when deficient used to be supplied by a foster-mother, and, if carefully chosen, added benefits to the child's physique. I know a large family of twelve children of whom a certain number were suckled by the mother and the others by foster-mothers or by bottles. Those of the family who suckled a healthy foster-mother were, as they grew up, quite distinct physically from either the mother-fed or bottle-fed children. . . .

The child raised on the bottle runs many risks, and chiefly is the temperature of the food supplied at fault. As we get older we can tolerate our food at a higher temperature. The temperature of the human body, both old and young, is 98.4 Fahrenheit. Anything at the temperature of the body, whether that of the mouth or skin, is warm; anything above is hot; anything below, tepid or cold. The infant taking food from the breast gets it at the temperature of the mother, viz., 98.4. The moment it is put on the bottle a change is apt to take place. As we get older we accustom ourselves to take our food warmer, until by the time we reach the adult line we can sip our tea from a spoon at 140 degrees Fahrenheit. We can sip it from the cup at 130 degrees and drink it from the cup at 120 degrees. When it falls below 120 degrees we say that it is cold. The mother tests the warmth of the milk in her infant's bottle by taking a suck from the teat, and, ascertaining that it is pleasant to her palate, gives it to the child, but the mother likes it at 120 degrees Fahrenheit or thereabout, and the infants' mouths should have it at about 98.4. From the bottle the infants, however, get it 20 degrees above the temperature of its mouth, and the child's mouth is scalded.

In the infant's gums the whole of the teeth, temporary and permanent, are present at birth, fifty-two in all. The gums over these tender teeth buds are being more or less scalded by the bottle milk. The surface of the gums is kept in a state of irritation, the blood is attracted to the surface of the gums by a sort of blister, and the deeper parts, containing the teeth, are deprived of that blood and come through ill-nourished and ready to decay and break down. Even the permanent teeth are affected. Of the permanent teeth the six-year-old molars are the first to come through, and how often they do so in a condition that soon ends in decay.

In an adult audience I was addressing lately, some 300 in number, I offered a shilling for every six-year-old molar any one in the company could show me. No one came forward to claim one shilling, so that either no one had any or they were too bashful to come forward.

We cannot rear a healthy nation upon rotten teeth, and it is time the condition of the teeth were made the condition of a national inquiry. Dentists are too busy looking after our decayed teeth to devote time to investigate reasons why our teeth decay. Several have found time to elucidate some important points, but the majority advise us to brush our teeth and eat hard biscuits to preserve them.

A really healthy person should have no occasion to brush the teeth. There never should be a spot or blemish to brush.

My father died at 67 with every tooth in his head (except one which he broke on a nut), white, perfect and regular. My uncle lost none. Most of the older men in my parish tell the same tale. Why this change? A patient of mine told me he could not understand why he had bad teeth, as he brushed his teeth every day until his gums bled. The tooth brush with him, as with many others, was the cause of the bad teeth. I would suggest that a society be formed at once devoted to an inquiry into the cause of decay of the teeth of the people of the nation, for it is an all-important subject which strikes at the very vitals of our well-being.

We send out expeditions at great expense, say to West Africa, to discover the insect or grub that carries some rare disease, a matter of insignificant consequence, but we allow our teeth to go awry and no one raises a warning cry.

I cannot go into the question of clothing—there is no time to do so. I can only sum it up. I have come to the conclusion, especially for children, that one pound weight of clothing for every stone weight of the body is the standard. This has been arrived at after weighing the clothing of many scores of children and gauging their physique and weight. It is no question of opinion. "I have no use for opinions in such matters." Reduce them to the weighing scales. Iron has no opinion and can only disclose facts and the truth.

Much has been said in the papers on my pronouncement on corsets. My statement was that during experience gained by practice in the tropics I found that women had fewer liver inflammations; and that I had operated upon many liver abscesses in man, but never once upon a woman, and I was inclined to attribute the fewer abdominal troubles in women to the equitable temperature maintained by the corset around the abdomen, just as in the same way the kilt of the Highland soldier, with its thick abdominal covering, is regarded by him as the cause of fewer abdominal ailments occurring in the kilted regiments than in others during military campaigns.

Games in young men are a natural asset of the highest importance in the race. I see the effects of these frequently, as her many years I have been examining on an average as many as 1,100 a year. I see men chiefly between the ages of 19 and 25, and have learned a great deal about the effect of indulgence, or shall I call it over-indulgence, in so-called sports. Of all sports or pastimes, swimming is the most detrimental—not the ordinary, occasional swim, but races, especially "long-distance" ones. These produce a condition which is detrimental to the man going to the tropics until he has recovered from their effects. He becomes anaemic, his heart is excitable, dilated and irregular; the least exertion, such as swinging his arms around his head, causes violent action of the heart. He will recover in a year or two if he ceases his "long swimming" practices.

HARMFUL ATHLETICS

Especially are rowing, bicycling and running with "hare and hounds" at school frequently productive of conditions correspondingly detrimental. I had the opportunity of examining in 1918 some hundreds of men called up for service in the army about the ages of 40 to 50. Few were fit, owing to heart affections, apparent on the least exertion, to take a military training, and the one sport above all others to which they confessed was "long-distance" bicycling. Moreover, in the majority the very evident congested veins seen on the skin of the chest, a "seaweed" looking frill of dilated veins just below the region of the heart, bore evidence to the seat of the trouble, the organ which had been overstrained. Discussion, therefore, on this fact is useless.

The amount of energy expended on the body is an interesting question. I can only state headings here. A statement on the expenditure of bodily forces in foot tons or foot pounds (not in the more mystic form of calories) may serve to bring this question home. A water bottle weighs one pound. When I raise it from the table I expend a foot pound of energy. A stair step measures six inches, two measure one foot. A man weighing ten stones—that is, 140 pounds—raises the weight of his own body when he takes two steps one foot in height; that is, he raises 140 foot pounds. If this table before me weighed a ton and I could raise it in bulk or in pieces one foot off the floor, I would have expended one foot ton of energy applying this to the body.

Internal energy	260
Heat energy	2,840
Muscular exercises	300

A navvy in the street or farm laborer in the harvest field will expend 300 foot tons of energy in the day. Of course that is not the modern laborer. He does not expend half that amount, say 150 foot tons—or is it so much? At any rate, it is far below what he should spend for his health's sake.

THE ONE OBJECTION

There have been many rumors of the return of Mr. Bonar Law to the House of Commons, but at present he has evidently no intention of emerging from his retirement. He does not seem anxious to "face the music again," perhaps because he has an inherent dislike of music of any kind.

There is a good story that illustrates his aversion. The incident occurred during the Peace Conference, when he was taken to hear the comic opera "La Fille de Madame Angot," in Paris. Afterwards he was asked how he liked it.

"Well, it would not be so bad," he replied, "if it wasn't for the singing."

Vitality Of France

BY LOUIS LOUCHEUR
Minister of the Liberated Regions
In The French Cabinet

M. Loucheur is expected to visit Washington this Fall as a member of the French delegation at the Arms Conference.

It has often been said that no eloquence is superior to the eloquence of figures, and thus many exact figures have been given out. But a mass of statistics is sometimes harmful to the formation of a clear idea of the results obtained.

In so complex a problem as the reconstruction of the French devastated regions I should wish here not to draw up a detailed table of the progress which has been made, but to draw some conclusions that any one can see and remember easily.

Taking as a foundation the statistics drawn up by the Ministry of the Liberated Regions on July 1 last I shall examine in turn the condition of the land, the importance of the population which lives there, the reconstruction of dwelling places, of factories, of agricultural enterprises, of municipalities and of ways of communication.

In the devastated land we must leave on one side a zone where the value of the work to be done actually exceeds that of the land. But if there is no reason to hide the existence of this zone, which will recover little by little, it is unnecessary, on the other hand, to exaggerate its importance, the relation of this part to the whole of the devastated zone being not more than 1 to 30.

If we look into the number of the inhabitants who left on account of the war we see that four-fifths of these have already returned.

Turning to the matter of houses, nearly three-fourths of those which were damaged have been repaired, for the most part permanently. As regards the houses which were destroyed, about one out of two has been replaced by buildings of a more or less temporary kind.

Looking at industrial conditions, three-fourths of the factories enumerated by the office of the Industrial Reconstruction have already resumed operations.

In regard to agriculture, our live stock has already been restored in part, some by grants of the administrative services and some by individual effort. Thus more than half the number of horses and mules has been restored, half the cattle, more than a third of the pigs, and more than a quarter of the sheep. As for the area of cultivated farm lands it is nearly three-fourths of the arable land which is to be restored.

Paralleling the industrial and agricultural reconstruction the reorganisation of municipal life goes on. There remain today only 40 evacuated municipalities to be re-established, although at first the total numbered 3,256. There are almost as many schools as before the war, the difference being only 6 percent.

As to the ways of communication, 30 percent of the roads have been repaired, half of them permanently. All the main railway lines have been rebuilt, and 75 percent of the local lines. Ninety percent of the length of navigable waterways are now in condition.

These important results must not make us lose sight of the task which remains to be done. Every reader can easily estimate the proportion by running over in his mind what I have already stated, and it is not my intention to do that here. But there are some points which ought to be taken into consideration.

The total of the houses destroyed and not rebuilt remains very considerable.

A great number of factories have not got back to their normal output.

The deficit of our live stock is just about one-half.

There are still more than 400,000 hectares of arable land to be brought under cultivation.

It must not be forgotten, however, that these results have been obtained in two and a half years, while the war lasted for more than four years. Also the energy of the French peasant and workman, the clearsightedness of the working chiefs, guided and controlled by the Government on the one side and the results which I have shown on the other, permit us to look forward with confidence to the total reconstruction of the liberated regions.

Is it necessary to call attention to the fact that this effort of reconstruction has been accomplished by France after a war which had exhausted her finances and her most vital forces?

Is it not admirable that when the defeated enemy who is responsible for all these ruins has not yet made the smallest payment, the French people have consented to these new sacrifices which bear witness to their spirit of patriotic self-sacrifice and to their prodigious vitality? But they may not be able to support these sacrifices longer. All those who fought from 1914 to 1918 did so for an ideal of justice. All of them have gone on record that they wished to exact reparation for all the material damage caused by the war. Will their voice be heard?

Mongols To Cut Queues Of Soldiers

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, October 22.—"Monta", the Mongolian Telegraph Agency, reports that the Mongolian Government has resolved to cut the queues of the Mongolian soldiers and induce the women to part with their headgears. The Mongolian Government is also devising means for helping the Mongolians to settle down to agriculture and business pursuits instead of living a nomadic life.

China's Bar Association Upholds World Justice

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 23.—With delegates in attendance representing the bar of China, Japan, Korea, the Philippines and the United States the International Bar Association, which had its birth at Manila some eighteen months ago, held its first regular annual meeting in the Central Park this morning. The occasion was interesting as marking the launching of an organisation which aims at forming a link between members of the legal profession throughout the world.

The provisional constitution provides that the National Bar Association of the country in which the annual convention is held shall nominate officers for the year from among its members, and Mr. Wang Yu-ling was accordingly elected President and took the chair.

Dr. Matsushima, who has acted as provisional president during the past year, then tendered his report. He stated that, at the instance of the provisional administration, furnished by the Japanese Bar Association pending China's readiness to undertake the task, he himself had gone to America during the past year and, addressing the American and Canadian Bar Associations, had conveyed an invitation to them to appoint representatives to the new organisation.

He had also met Sir John Simons who volunteered to lend his support to the International Association among the members of the British Bar. In addition, Hongkong and India had expressed their willingness to participate. In conclusion he suggested certain modifications of the constitution and expressed his pleasure at the fact that China, with her ancient civilisation, should be the country to take over from Japan the task of conducting the administration of the Association.

In welcoming the delegates, Mr. Wang Yu-ling explained that it was the object of the Association to promote the cause of justice and peace by encouraging mutual understanding among the legal profession of the various nations. He hoped that it would prove successful in its efforts.

The Minister of Justice, Mr. Tung Kang, who represented Premier Chin Yung-peng, conveyed General Chin's greeting to the delegates present and his appreciation of the honor enjoyed by Peking in being chosen for the first regular meeting of the Association. He added an expression of his own good wishes for its success.

The Japanese Minister, Mr. Obata, emphasised the importance of the lawyer's part in modern national life and said he was convinced that the new organisation had already justified its existence. He was followed by the Acting Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Mr. Pan Tsang-chu, who felt that the Association would not only help to promote good fellowship but would also serve to uphold the principles of justice and humanity throughout the world.

The Procurator General, Mr. Wang Hsi-tsu, Dr. Hara, who spoke on behalf of the Japanese delegation, Judge Jose Abreu, spokesman for the Philippine delegation, and Major Holcomb, representing the American Bar of Shanghai, were the other speakers. The delegates were then entertained at tiffin by the Minister of the Interior, and spent the afternoon in a visit to the Forbidden City. They will be the guests of the Chinese Bar Association at dinner this evening.

NANKING PLANS ORGANISATION OF NEW RELIEF BODY

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, Oct. 27.—Tentative steps toward organising an auxiliary famine relief committee for Kiangsu Province were taken at a meeting of English and Americans which was held here recently at the suggestion of Messrs. Jameson and Davis, British and American consuls. Dr. Bowen was chosen chairman and Mr. S. J. Mills, secretary.

Dr W. W. Peter of the lecture department of the Y. M. C. A. is giving a series of illustrated health lectures in the public lecture hall under the auspices of the commissioner of police.

An extensive exhibition of the various products of the province is now being given on the grounds of the old Examination Halls near the Confucian Temple. The Commissioner of Education arranged the display.
